University at a Glance

Mahatma Jyotiba Phule Rohilkhand University, Bareilly was established in 1975 and its status was upgraded to affiliating-cum-residential University in the year 1985. The University has taken an overall perspective of development plan by including new Faculties of Engineering and Technology, Management, Applied Sciences, Education and Allied Science etc. With its territorial jurisdiction extending over the eight districts of western U.P., the University is a premier institution of higher education in the Rohilkhand region.

The University campus is spread over 206 acres of Land. At present, there are 21 departments in the University Campus and more than 350 affiliated colleges. The University has been ranked Second Best University in all over U.P. The University is committed for expansion and quality education and therefore, has attained the reputation of emerging as a major seat of learning in the State.

About Bareilly

Bareilly, a city of Indian state Uttar Pradesh, with above ten lakhs population is located on the banks of river Ramganga. This historical city is situated 268 km south east of Delhi, the National capital and 245 km from Lucknow, the state capital of Uttar Pradesh. The city is known as Nath Nagari (Land of Lord Shiva temples) and historically Sanjashya (where Buddha descended from Tushita to Earth). Very famous and old spiritual shrine 'Khanqah-e-Niyazia' which is the nodal centre of Sufism is also situated here. Bareilly is a centre for furniture manufacturing, Zari work and trade in cotton, cereal & sugar. Mahatma Jyotiba Phule Rohilkhand University is located 8 km from Railway station, and 3 km from Satellite Bus stand. In the month of October the weather will be pleasant and temperature may hover between 20° and 30°C.

About the Conference

Material Science is an area with wide range of applications in day to day life of all living beings. On one hand it has provided a useful tool for researchers to look for new and new materials both from natural as well as synthetic origin. On the other hand clothing, fooding, medicine, defense, space technology and communication systems, are totally material based. We can no longer be forced to manage with the materials that the natural world provides. We can design new ones that better suit our purposes. Cutting-edge advances in materials are opening up vast new opportunities in Engineering, Science and Design.

This conference will help in developing a great mutual appreciation of interdisciplinary subject apart from the state-of-art exposure in areas of direct interest of different participants.

Keeping the importance and relevance of the materials in our future life, a need was felt to make the teachers, research scholars, and engineers aware of the advances in the field of Materials Science & Technology and hence this event is being organized.

Focus of Conference

The present conference will cover a wide range of topics on Materials which include

- Nano structured Materials & nanotechnology
- Nuclear Materials
- Non-linear Optical Materials
- Structural, functional and Bio-Materials
- Experimental techniques & Devices
- Polymer Science & Applications
- Magnetism including Spintronics
- Liquid glasses and Amorphous Systems
- Photonic bang gap Materials
- Crystal growth of Semiconductor Materials
- Thin Film Growth, Epitaxy and Superlattices
- Material Characterization Techniques
- Vibrational Spectroscopy
- Terahertz Spectroscopy
- Time-resolved Spectroscopy
- Computational Methods & Simulation
- Other Relevant Topics

Executive OrganizingCommittee

Patron
Prof. Mushahid Husain
Vice Chancellor,
M.J.P. Rohilkhand University, Bareilly

Chairman
Prof. A.K. Gupta
Dean, Faculty of Engineering & Technology

Convener
Dr. Archana Gupta

Coordinator
Dr. M. Saleem Khan

Organizing Secretary
Dr. Sudhir Kumar

Important Dates

Last date of paper submission : 15th September, 2016
Notification of acceptance : 1st October, 2016
Author Registration : 15th October, 2016

Registration Fees

Participants	Upto 01 Oct 16		After 01 Oct 16
